

Author Talk: A Farmer's Guide to Climate Disruption

Monday January 28 at 6:30pm
Mitchell Library, 37 Harrison St, New Haven

A Farmer's Guide to Climate Disruption provides insight into how you can thrive in the changing climate by using produce growing methods that stem the tide of climate change, while regenerating your land. Rebekah Fraser is a writer living in New Haven, a graduate of Yale University and author of the novel The Orderly. She worked as journalist for over a decade and covered agriculture, food production, and environmental issues, including the relationship between farming and climate change. A Farmer's Guide to Climate Disruption is her first nonfiction book.
